SOME KREIDER HISTORY

As a foreword, a little history of the arrival in this Country of the Kreiders should be given. Official records of the years 1675 - 1750 such as ship arrivals, Land Grants, deeds, etc., only substantiated the names of the parties and their locations. Most all were 'Mennonites' and the Church records are the best we have in tracing the early emigrants. Several Genealogists in the past 100 years have endeavored to establish an accurate account of the arrivals of our first ancestors to the New World but their accounts are at variance. We will try to record the more plausible accounts as it affects our ancestors.

A comprehensive account of the 'Mennonites' is contained in the Encyclopedia Americana, page 633, of which the following is a brief resume'.
" In Zurich, Switzerland, a Catholic priest, Huldreich Zwingli (1484-1531), becoming critical of the practices of the Church, formally launched the 'Anabaptist' movement on Jan. 21, 1525. The Swiss church (R. Catholic) decreed death to all Anabaptists and many were killed, including Zwingli. But a small secret group emigrated into Germany and Holland; preaching and converting as they went. In Holland, a former Lutheran named Melchior Hoffman organized a new movement totally independent of the Swiss Anabaptists who were led, at that time, by two brothers Obbe and Kirk Philips; and called 'Obenites' (about 1534). In January 1535, Menno Simons, a bible student and disciple of Martin Luther's writings, united with the Obenites and soon became an outstanding leader. For some 30 years he preached and evangelized. He founded the Mennonite church as we know it today. There have been several branch sects developed from the original since emigrating to the New World.

SOME KREIDER HISTORY

182291

In the year 1683 William Penn and wife Gullielma, along with many English Quakers, landed and established 1675 - 1750 as headquarters of the Pennsylvania Colony. There, Penn began awarding 'Grants of Land' to the emigrants as they arrived. The sale price of these grants has not been recorded that we have found.

The first of the Mennonites came over in 1683 also, and settled near Germantown, Pa. Our first ancestor came over in 1717 and settled near Lancaster, Pa. an already established town.

It might be well to mention now that when the German name sound was colored phonetically by the English speaking recorders, such names as Gritter, Cryter, Grider, Groiter, etc., appear on warranty deeds and grants. This may explain the different spelling of our ancestor's names as they appear in many of the genealogical accounts. Many of the German spelling of the names was translated into English, such as Hans Jaggi Greider to John Jacob Gritter, who arrived in 1717, and Hans Jaggi Greider to John Jacob Greider who arrived in 1738. These two examples are given mainly to separate two different families which was confusing to many genealogists.

Of our direct line, John Jacob Gritter, called 'John the Elder', came over first in 1717. From the files at the Lancaster Mennonite Conference Historical Society, 2215 Mill Street Road, Lancaster, Pa., 17602, the secretary, Rev. Ira D. Landis writes, "He settled on the Conestoga, south of Lancaster City, and here reared a large family. His son, Preacher John Cryder married Barbara Christian, was widowed and remarried a Mary Ann ----. He and a brother went to Santa Feek and are buried there in a Kreider cemetery on his farm. John's son Henry Nov. 15, 1746 - Nov. 15, 1779, married Barbara Yorty of his area, was father of John of your papers." This reference is to information appearing in the family bible of John and Mary Kreider, printed in Nuremberg, Germany in 1747, and which I have sent to the Society for permanent deposit. It is a Lutheran bible, printed in German and is in a well preserved condition. The bible's records will be presented later in its proper place.

We will try to record the more plausible accounts as it affects our ancestors.

A comprehensive account of the 'Mennonites' is contained in the Encyclopedia Americana, page 633, of which the following is a brief resume'.

" In Zurich, Switzerland, a Catholic priest, Konrad Grebel (1498-1526), becoming critical of the practices of the Church, formally launched the 'Anabaptist' movement on Jan. 21, 1525. The Swiss church (R. Catholic) decreed death to all Anabaptists and many were killed, including Grebel. But a small secret group emigrated into Germany and Holland; preaching and converting as they went. In the year 1683 William Penn and wife Gulielma, along with many English Quakers, landed and established Philadelphia as headquarters of the Pennsylvania Colony. There, Penn began awarding 'Grants of Land' to the emigrants as they arrived. The sale price of these grants has not been recorded that we have found.

It might be well to mention now that when the German name sound was entered phonetically by the English speaking recorders, such names as Grittor, Cryter, Grider, Greiter, etc., appear on warranty deeds and grants. This may explain the different spelling of our ancestor's names as they appear in many of the genealogical accounts. Many of the German spelling of the names was translated into English, such as Hance Jaggi Greider to John Jacob Grittor, who arrived in 1717, and Hans Jaggi Greider to John Jacob Greider who arrived in 1736. These two examples are given mainly to separate two different families which was confusing to many genealogists.

Of our direct line, John Jacob Grittor, called 'John the Elder', came over first in 1717. ## HANCE JAGGI GRITTOR

As mentioned in the foreword, Hance Jaggi Grittor, who arrived in America in 1717, was the first of our Kreiders of record. He bought some 800 acres of land on Conestoga Creek near the present town of Lancaster, Pa. The family dates are fragmentary but what we know from records, the family consisted of those named below. We will use the various English spellings of the name. For my direct line of ancestors I will use CAPS for those names.

From "Pennsylvania German Pioneers" by Strassburger, Vol. 1, page 176, 177 and 178, quote:

Shipped on "Vertuous Grace", John Bull, Capt.; out of Rotterdam and Cowes, England 24 Sept. 1737 bound for Philadelphia, Pa.; Jacob Croiter, age 38.

This Jacob was born in 1699, evidently, but I have not found where he fits in with any of our Kreiders. Any suggestions ?

HANS JAGGI GREIDER

As mentioned in the foreword, Hans Jaggi Greider of Runenberg, Germany who emigrated to America, landing at Philadelphia Sept. 16, 1736, moved to the area adjacent to the farm of John Jacob Grittor on the Conestoga. The English recorders spelled his name as John Jacob Greider and we will use this spelling in the composition of his family. He was married three times, all in Germany, and those records are not available at this time. When he arrived with his third wife and children, the ship manifest lists only Hans Martin and Hans Jacob.

Of his three wives, the first is not named. He married secondly Ursula (Elsbeth) Haffelfinger of Dieckten, Germany. He, being of the Mennonite faith, it is reasonable to assume the first two wives died in Germany as divorces were not granted in those days. Anyway, in "Lists of Swiss Emigrants", Vol. 2, page 97, Barbara Christen is listed as his third wife who arrived with him in Philadelphia. But again from the same source in Vol. 2, page 210, speaking of the baptism of their son Jacob on May 21, 1736, his wife is listed as Elsbeth Schaub. This baptism may have been just before they shipped out for America.

The best I can make out of the existing records is listed below:

Hans Jaggi Greider	married 1st	_____ ?
(John Jacob Greider)
Issue of 1. Fridlin and 2. Hans Martin.
Births and deaths not recorded.

John Jacob Greider	married 2nd	Ursula Haffelfinger
		B. _____ D. _____

Hans (Jacob) Greider	married	Mary _____ ?
See family of John Jacob and Mary, page K-4

John Jacob Greider	married 3rd	Barbara Christen
		born: _____ Died: after 1736

No issue of this marriage is recorded but other records name Michael and Frederick who may be of this union. Both John Jacob and Barbara were elderly when they emigrated so it is possible all of the family were born in Germany and records from there are not obtainable.

From the Amos K. Stauffer manuscript, unpublished as of 1969, we have the listing of Jacob Kreytor (Greider). Reference is made to page number in the right hand margin. This may be the son of Hans Jaggi Greider and Elsbeth Schaub as presented on the previous page.

A notation by Rev. I. D. Landis:

"The Anabaptist movement began Jan. 21, 1525 in Zurich, Switzerland. This was nine years before Luther's complete translation appeared. This we consider the start of the Mennonite Church. The last martyr was Hans Landis in 1614, but they were again driven from their Fatherland beginning in 1641, 1681, etc., settling along the Upper Rhine as far North as the Palutinate and Baden around the Neckar River."

JOHN GRITTOR, son of John Jacob, and sometimes referred to as "The Settler on Snitz Creek" or "The Other Settler", took up land just South of his father. We will use the spelling "Kreider" for this line as most of the present day Kreiders are descendants.

Note: The above John Kreider, husband of Barbara Christian, is reported to be born 1712 in one record and 1725 in another. The 1725 date is doubtful because he would only have been 15 years old when his 2nd child was born.

The Rev. Martin Kreider, son of John Kreider (The Other Settler), married Anna Catherine Schmutz, daughter of Abraham and Barbara Schmutz.

Note: The Rev. J. G. Francis book on Kreider genealogy reports 16 children but only names the above 13. Then the Middlebury Post attributes Rebecca Kreider; b. 9 April, 1818; d. 4 Sept. 1862, to the above family but this is very unlikely as Rev. Martin and wife would have been in their 70's

The listing of the Kreider families before 1750 has several supposedly authoritative sources which have come to my attention. Each of the following references has presented their findings and many differences in dates and family composition are given. I am unable to unscramble the data to arrive at a correct listing of the early ancestors and dates.

The sources are:

- Strassburger-Hinkle; Vol. 1, pages 162, 164 and 166.
- The Rev. J. G. Francis book; printed by the Lebanon Daily News, 1919
- From the Middlebury Post, of 1899-1900; serialized Genealogical History.
- From the Mennonite Encyclopedia; Vol. 3, pages 238 and 239.
- From "Fifty Years of Research of the Kreider Family" by Amos K. Stauffer.
- From notes and data supplied by Rev. Ira D. Landis, Sect. of the Lancaster Mennonite Conference Historical Society.
- And in correspondence with present descendants of the Kreiders.

The Middlebury Post history did not list any of the children of these marriages that I could determine. I would welcome any extention of the children or send direct to the Secretary, Lancaster Mennonite Conference Historical Society; 2215 Mill Stream Road; Lancaster, Pa. - 17602.

The Middlebury Post also lists "Maria Kreider, ~~B. 21 Nov. 1807, D. 20~~
B. 26 Dec. 1811; D. 22 Sept. 1857; w/o John and dau of Christian Kreider"
But I dont think this is so as the above Christian (#6) would only have been 16½ years old and Barbara only 13. Maybe they ment "Blabk Christy", whose family I do not have.

Abraham Kreider, son of Rev. Martin Kreider and his wife Anna Catherine Schmutz; married Catherine Laudermilch, daughter of John and Christina Laudermilch. This listing of names is from the Middlebury Post record.

HENRY KREIDER (The Martyr), son of John Kreider (The Other Settler), married Barbara Yorty (or Yader). His name was also spelled Greider in some histories. His son, John, called 'Johnny of the Homestead' kept a record in their family bible, printed in Nurenburg, Germany in 1747 and is on deposit in the Mennonite Conference Historical Library, Lancaster, Pa. May I call your attention to the spelling in Rev. Francis' book as opposed to that as entered in the bible. Rev. Francis has 'Johnny of the Homestead' marrying Maria Knopp whereas the bible entry is spelled 'Mary Knopp'.

Quote from the Rev, Francis book, page 15; "Henry the Martyr":

Henry Kreider met an untimely death. He was a Mennonite and awakened the resentment of his neighbor, Zimmerman, to the south. The Mennonites of course would not bear arms, and they thought they ought to keep the promise previously given, to be subject to the King of Great Britain. Zimmerman gave information to the effect that Henry had grain buried, which was not the case. He was siezed and bound by soldiers, who insisted Henry tell where the grain was buried. He had nothing to tell and told nothing. He was regarded as stubborn and incorrigible. The soldiers smote him on the breast with the iron cuffs about his wrists, but in vain. The abuse was kept up till Henry began to spit blood, and this was the direct cause of his death.

(end quote)

JOHN KREIDER, called "Johnny of the Homestead", son of Henry (The Martyr), and grandson of John Jacob Kreider (The Other Settler). He bought the original farm of his grandfather and thus earned the nickname. His family bible is on deposit at the Lancaster Mennonite Conference Historical Library.
